Novogradac & Company LLP Announces It Will Host Its Urban Revitalization: An Affordable Housing Conference July 13-15 in Chicago

CHICAGO—Novogradac & Company LLP has announced that it will host its Urban Revitalization: An Affordable Housing Conference July 13-15 in Chicago at the Chicago Renaissance Hotel.

Urban Revitalization: An Affordable Housing Conference will explore a number of financing resources available for developers and investors interested in urban revitalization and economic development. Affordable housing practitioners will explain how to put together a viable downtown affordable housing transaction using subsidies such as low-income housing tax credits, tax-exempt bonds, historic tax credits, Hope VI grants, private foundation grants and more. Panelists will explore the best strategies used to overcome the regulations and zoning requirements that can hinder downtown housing development.

"New and rehabilitated affordable multifamily housing has helped bring economic strength to many of this nation's city centers," said Michael J. Novogradac, CPA, managing partner at Novogradac & Company LLP. "Our conference will explore the latest opportunities in urban revitalization within the affordable housing industry."
