The NMTC New Markets Tax Credit, in Los Angeles, has been used as equity credit in affordable housing through Community Development Block Grants and other low income State and Local funding opportunities.

We need business growth.

Please consider this program to be included in the HUD Community Development Block Grant Economic Development for micro businesses and small business ownership. In Los Angeles, we have the Business Source Centers that should be promoting this credit.

They do not.

Though the elected officials and wealthy developers know about this credit, the resident and small business owner does not.

We need growth in small business and would appreciate this credit to be used to provide opportunity, not just increase wealth.

Our low income small business owners speak many languages and come from many cultures.
