Novogradac Honored as One of Best CPA Firms for Women for Fifth Year

Accounting MOVE Project Lauds Firm for Empowering Women, Fostering Inclusion

SAN FRANCISCO – Novogradac continues to be one of the best CPA firms for women and equity leadership, according to the 2021 Accounting MOVE Project report on the subject.

The San Francisco-based accounting and consulting firm was one of 10 firms recognized as the Best CPA Firms for Women and one of 23 firms recognized as the Best Firms for Equity Leadership by the Accounting Move Project. This is the fifth-straight year that Novogradac received the honor.

The 2021 Accounting MOVE Project focuses on firms that have both a high proportion of women at most or all levels of management and proven success. Women make up more than 30 percent of Novogradac's partners and principals.

"Novogradac is proud that, in the face of considerable uncertainty, our organization's proven history of embracing change positioned us to successfully navigate a challenging professional landscape without sacrificing opportunities for our employees," said Diana R. Letsinger, CPA and partner in Novogradac's Long Beach, Calif., office and member of the organization's three-person executive team. "We are especially pleased that Novogradac's unflagging focus on collaboration and inclusion allows us to cultivate and support talented professionals to serve our clients."

The MOVE Project press release praised Novogradac's approach.

"In it to win it: once Novogradac decided it was time to launch a diversity initiative, it poured time, resources and commitment to propel its programs to top status right out of the gate. The firm's approach blends its already-winning strategy to equip new women partners with tools for success with incisive strategies and goals," the MOVE Project press release said.

Michael J. Novogradac, the organization's managing partner, is grateful for the selection.
