FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Novogradac & Company LLP Promotes Alvin Lee to Partner

National CPA Firm Promotes Three to Partner in Atlanta and San Francisco Offices

SAN FRANCISCO—San Francisco-based accounting and consulting firm Novogradac & Company LLP elevated Alvin Lee to partner. Novogradac, which specializes in affordable housing, community development, historic preservation, renewable energy and opportunity zones, also promoted two of his colleagues to partner. Mr. Lee works out of the firm’s San Francisco office.

“We are very pleased to announce the promotion of Alvin to partner,” said Michael J. Novogradac, the firm’s managing partner. “Alvin is well known for his broad technical knowledge across a variety of engagement types, strong work ethic and sound professional judgment, which drove his advancement. Since being promoted to principal in 2015, he has worked tirelessly to grow his team’s sales volume as well as develop and mentor his staff.”

“I am honored to join the firm as partner after 12 years of service at Novogradac,” said Mr. Lee. “I look forward to upcoming opportunities in our industry and finding new ways to grow our firm.”

Mr. Lee specializes in real estate and renewable energy transactions by providing audit, tax and consulting services for developers, syndicators and investors. He has extensive experience with financial modeling and financial statement reporting for renewable energy tax credit and low-income housing tax credit transactions with emphasis on investment accounting and partnership taxation. He earned his bachelor’s degree in business administration from the University of California, Berkeley. He is licensed in California as a certified public accountant.

The firm also promoted Rebecca Darling of the Atlanta office and Roy Chou of the San Francisco office to partner.
