Community Development Leaders to Discuss How Mid-Term Election Could Affect NMTC

Novogradac 2018 New Markets Tax Credit Fall Conference in Austin, Texas, Oct. 18-19

AUSTIN, Texas— The November mid-term election—and potential subsequent changes to congressional tax-writing committees—could play a significant role in the future of the new markets tax credit (NMTC), which is currently authorized for one more allocation round. Community development experts will discuss what’s on the horizon for the NMTC at the Novogradac 2018 New Markets Tax Credit Fall Conference, which will be hosted at the Fairmont Austin in Austin, Texas, Oct. 18-19.

“Our conference offers attendees a great blend of top-level insights on policies and regulations, as well as practical knowledge that can help NMTC participants make informed decisions,” said Brad Elphick, CPA, conference chairman and Novogradac & Company partner. “In addition, conference attendees can expect plenty of opportunities to network and make connections with some of the NMTC community’s most experienced participants.”

Conference details and the complete conference agenda can be found at www.novoco.com/events/novogradac-2018-new-markets-tax-credit-fall-conference

In addition, two pre-conference workshops will be offered Oct. 17. They are NMTC 101: The Basics and Closing Deals for CDEs. Separate registration and fees apply.
